B Reading

(7 Marks)

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Eating a healthy diet is very important for maintaining good health. It is not something you do for a short time; it should be a lifelong habit. A healthy diet includes a variety of foods from different groups such as fruits, vegetables, grains, protein, and dairy. Each type of food provides important nutrients that your body needs to stay strong and function properly.

A balanced diet can help prevent many serious diseases like heart disease, diabetes, and some types of cancer. This is because it gives your body the essential nutrients it needs. At the same time, it is important to limit unhealthy foods that are high in fat, sugar, and salt, as they can harm your health over time.

When you eat healthy food regularly, you will feel more energetic and active. Your body will work better, and you will be less likely to gain too much weight. Eating healthy does not mean you must stop eating your favorite foods completely, but you should eat them in moderation.

To include a variety of foods in your diet, try adding new fruits and vegetables, cooking different meals, and trying foods from other cultures. Making healthy eating part of your daily routine will help you live a healthier and happier life.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

1 What is the main idea of the passage?

a) Food from other cultures is the best.

b) Healthy eating is important for life.

c) Cooking is a fun activity.

d) People should have a healthy diet for a short time.

a) broken bones and cuts b) allergies and asthma

c) heart disease and diabetes d) the flu and colds

3 What does the underlined pronoun "them" refer to?

a) Favorite foods.
b) Good foods.
c) Unhealthy foods.
d) Fast foods.

4 What does the writer suggest about favorite foods?

a) You should never eat them.
b) You should eat them all the time.
c) You can eat them, but not too much.
d) You should replace them completely.

5 What is one result of eating a healthy diet regularly?

a) Feeling weak.
b) Feeling energetic.
c) Having a daily routine.
d) Losing interest in food.

6 We can infer that healthy routine means to ....

a) eat only on king of food
b) eat lots of meals a day
c) have a variety of good food
d) cook different meals from different countries

7 Why is it important to eat foods from different groups?

a) To make meals more expensive.

B Reading

(7 Marks)

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Time management means organizing your time and planning how to use it for different tasks. Good time management helps you work smarter, not harder, so you can finish more work in less time, even when you feel pressure. If you don't manage your time well, you may feel stressed, miss deadlines, and produce poor-quality work. To succeed, you need to decide which tasks are most important and focus on them instead of wasting time on less useful activities.

One big problem is procrastination, which means delaying work until the last minute. This often happens when a task seems too big or difficult. To solve this problem, you can divide big tasks into smaller, easier steps. This makes the task less scary and easier to start. Successful people also use clear schedules to organize their time. They set specific times for focused work and try to avoid distractions like social media or phone notifications.

Managing your time well also needs discipline. It is not about working all the time but about balancing work and rest. If you don't take breaks, you may feel very tired and lose energy. A good plan includes time for both work and relaxation. When you control your time, you can complete your tasks and still have time to enjoy your life without worry.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

1 What is the main idea of the passage?
- a) Working longer hours always leads to better results.
- b) Social media is the main reason people fail in work.
- c) Time planning improves performance and supports life balance.
- d) Large projects require help from many different people.

2 The underlined word "discipline" means ....
- a) self-control in managing actions
- b) fear of making mistakes
- c) help from other people
- d) speed in finishing work

3 What is a likely result of poor time management?

a) Increased focus and stronger daily work performance.
b) Higher stress and lower quality in completed tasks.
c) Better ability to handle many tasks at the same time.
d) More free time to relax and enjoy personal activities.

4 A good plan should include time for ....

a) study and travel
b) sports and games
c) food and shopping
d) work and relaxation

5 Why do people often procrastinate according to the text?

a) They feel confused by tasks that seem too large.
b) They prefer working quickly under strong pressure.
c) They enjoy spending time doing less useful activities.
d) They want to avoid responsibility for difficult work.

6 What can we infer about distractions?

a) They help people focus deeply.
b) They improve work quality.
c) They reduce productivity.
d) They save valuable time.

7 Successful people often use schedules to ....

a) avoid doing difficult tasks
b) reduce their free time
c) waste time during the day
d) organize their daily activities

B Reading

(7 Marks)

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Cultural heritage is the legacy of physical artifacts and non-material attributes of a group or society that are inherited from past generations. It includes not only historical monuments and museum collections but also traditions, oral histories, and living expressions passed down through time. Appreciating this heritage is essential because it provides us with a sense of identity and belonging. When we understand where we come from, we are better equipped to navigate where we are going. However, in our rapidly changing modern world, many of these precious links to the past are becoming vulnerable to neglect.

Preserving cultural heritage requires more than just keeping old buildings standing; it involves keeping stories and customs alive. Each culture possesses a unique perspective on life, and when a tradition vanishes, a piece of human wisdom is lost forever. To prevent this, communities must take an active role in documenting and celebrating their roots. Educational programs can help young people realize that heritage is not a static collection of old things but a dynamic force that shapes their current values.

Furthermore, honoring different cultures fosters mutual respect and global peace. By acknowledging the essential value of every society's history, we reduce prejudice and build bridges between people. Protecting these treasures is a great task that requires international cooperation. Ultimately, cultural heritage belongs to all of humanity. It is our shared duty to ensure that the voices of our ancestors continue to resonate for the generations yet to come.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

1. What is the main idea of the passage?

a) Modern technology is destroying the world's oldest monuments.
b) Preserving cultural heritage is vital for identity and peace.
c) Tourism is the only way to save ancient traditions from dying.
d) Historical museums are the most important part of any city.

2 What can be inferred about a tradition that "vanishes"?

a) It results in the permanent loss of unique cultural wisdom.
b) It was likely replaced by a much better and newer version.
c) It was probably not very important to the local community.
d) It will be automatically rediscovered by historians later on.

3 The underlined word "vulnerable" in the first paragraph means ....

a) extremely strong
b) highly popular
c) very expensive
d) easily harmed

4 What can we deduce about the author's opinion on international cooperation?

a) It is unnecessary because countries should work alone.
b) It is essential for protecting the world's shared history.
c) It is the main reason why many traditions are disappearing.
d) It is only helpful for scientific research, not for culture.

5 Which of the following is an example of "non-material" heritage mentioned?

a) A large stone monument in the middle of a capital city.
b) A collection of ancient gold coins found in a deep cave.
c) An oral history passed down through spoken generations.
d) A modern painting displayed in a local community center.

6 What is the result of acknowledging the value of every society?

a) It helps bridge the gaps between different types of people.
b) More wars will happen because people are too different.
c) People will stop caring about their own local traditions.
d) The world will become a very confusing place for tourists.

7 Which title would be most suitable for this entire passage? - ".......................".

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Diversity refers to the variety of people, ideas, and cultures within a society. In a heterogeneous community, individuals come from different backgrounds, speak different languages, and follow different traditions. This mixture can create both opportunities and challenges. When people respect differences, diversity becomes a source of strength that improves creativity and problem-solving.

Schools and workplaces often benefit from diversity because it allows individuals to share multiple perspectives. Students learn to appreciate new ideas and develop open-minded thinking. For example, group projects become more effective when members contribute unique skills. However, misunderstandings may occur if communication is weak or if people refuse to accept others' views.

To manage diversity successfully, societies encourage cooperation and mutual respect. Programs that support inclusion help reduce conflict and build social cohesion. At the same time, excessive pressure for assimilation may force individuals to lose their identity, which can create tension. Therefore, balance is important so that unity does not eliminate uniqueness.

Eventually, diversity should be seen as an asset rather than a problem. When properly managed, it strengthens communities and prepares people to live in a global world where interaction among cultures is unavoidable. Such as in workplaces, schools, and international cooperation projects, diversity leads to innovation and better decision making when managed wisely. It also helps people understand global issues more clearly. Thus, improving cooperation among nations worldwide greatly.

B Reading

(7 Marks)

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The future job market is changing quickly because of technology and global development. Many traditional jobs are disappearing while new careers are appearing every year. Young people need to prepare early to face these changes. One important factor is education, especially learning skills that can be used in different fields, not only one job. Schools now focus on problem-solving, communication, and digital skills to help students succeed. Another key factor is automation, which means machines and computers doing tasks that humans used to do. This change reduces some jobs but also creates new opportunities in technology and design. Therefore, students must not only study hard but also learn how to adapt.

Adaptability is another important skill for success. It means being ready to learn new things and change plans when necessary. People who develop adaptability can survive in a fast-changing world. In addition, young people should explore entrepreneurship, which allows them to create their own jobs instead of waiting for employment. Continuous learning and training are also necessary because knowledge becomes outdated quickly.

Finally, students should think about global trends and prepare themselves for jobs that may not even exist today. By developing skills, awareness, and flexibility, young people can build a strong future in the job market and succeed globally as well.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

1 What is the main idea of the passage?

a) History of traditional and old job systems.
b) Preparing youth for future job market changes.
c) Entertainment trends in modern societies in the world today.
d) Sports careers and athletic professional training programs.

2 The underlined word "automation" means ....

a) the method of improving human memory skills very effectively
b) the process of increasing school homework daily assignments' load
c) the use of machines to perform human tasks automatically
d) the system of reducing internet usage at home completely

3 Why is continuous learning important?

a) Because education systems remain completely unchanged forever always.
b) Because students stop using technology in the future completely.
c) Because jobs require no new skills ever to be needed.
d) Because knowledge becomes outdated very quickly today.

4 Entrepreneurship in the passage means ....

a) working only in government jobs for stability always
b) studying harder in school without any breaks ever
c) creating own jobs instead of waiting employment opportunities
d) avoiding all risks in career decisions completely forever

5 Schools are changing because they ....

a) encourage students to avoid all technology use fully
b) focus on digital and problem-solving skills training
c) stop teaching communication skills to students entirely removed
d) remove all subjects except mathematics completely in schools

6 Adaptability helps people to ....

a) adjust successfully to new changes and conditions easily
b) avoid changes in workplace environment completely without adaptation
c) depend only on fixed routines every day always
d) refuse learning any new skills in life completely

7 The best way to prepare for future job market is ....

a) focus only on one traditional job skill
b) develop skills, learn, and think globally
c) avoid all education and stop learning
d) ignore technology and development trends

B Reading

(7 Marks)

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Creating a better community is a shared responsibility that depends on the actions of every individual. A strong community is built when people cooperate, respect one another, and work together to solve problems. Simple actions such as helping neighbors, keeping public places clean, and following rules can make a big difference in improving daily life.

One important aspect of building a better community is participation. When people take part in activities like volunteering or attending local meetings, they become more aware of the needs around them. This sense of responsibility encourages them to contribute positively. Another key idea is tolerance, which means accepting differences between people, such as culture, opinions, and beliefs. Communities that practice tolerance are often more peaceful and stable.

However, challenges can arise when individuals ignore their duties or focus only on personal interests. This can lead to conflict and weaken social connections. To overcome this, it is essential to promote communication and understanding among community members. Education also plays a vital role, as it helps people learn how to cooperate and respect others.

In conclusion, creating a better community requires effort, respect, and cooperation from everyone. When individuals act responsibly and support one another, they help build a safe, strong, and successful society for all.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

1 What is the main idea of the passage?

a) Individuals should focus only on their personal interests.

b) Governments alone are responsible for community success.

c) Communities improve when people work together responsibly.

d) Social problems cannot be solved through cooperation.

2 What helps build a strong community according to the text?
a) Ignoring rules and avoiding responsibility in daily life.
b) Cooperation, respect, and shared responsibility among people.
c) Focusing only on personal success without helping others.
d) Limiting communication between different community members.

3 What does "participation" mainly mean in the passage?
a) Taking part in activities that support the community.
b) Avoiding involvement in community activities and events.
c) Focusing only on personal goals without helping others.
d) Observing problems without trying to solve them.

4 Why is volunteering important for a community?
a) It helps individuals gain personal profit and money.
b) It reduces communication between community members.
c) It allows people to avoid responsibility and duties.
d) It increases awareness of community needs and problems.

5 What happens when people ignore their responsibilities?
a) Social connections become stronger and more stable.
b) Communities become more organized and successful.
c) Conflicts increase and relationships become weaker.
d) Individuals become more active in helping others.

6 What can we infer about tolerant communities?
a) They experience more conflicts and social problems.
b) They are usually more peaceful and socially stable.
c) They avoid interaction between different individuals.
d) They focus only on economic growth and development.

7 Why should people attend local meetings?
a) To understand problems and help find solutions.
b) To avoid interacting with other community members.
c) To spend time without taking responsibility.
d) To focus only on their personal opinions.
